USC Lancaster Faculty Meeting Minutes March 5, 2021

CALL TO ORDER: D. Lawrence, 12:01 PM

CORRECTION/APPROVAL OF MINUTES: The minutes of the Feb 12, 2021 faculty meeting were approved as submitted.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS:

Dean of the Campus – Dr. Walter Collins, report submitted (Appendix 1).

- COVID19 update – no new cases this week
- Vaccines – Phase 1b begins March 8th
- Advice – feel free to call and ask
- USCL working with The Arras Foundation – goal is to have a specific focus, that is the Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Access. Recent meetings and seems like a lot of interest and expect a good number of applicants.
- Star Hall renovations – some rendering images – start June 1st, completion expected at the start of Fall semester.
- SACS comes in two weeks – March 22nd, USCL will present. Faculty and students will have time for presentations.
- Virtual Commencement for May 1st Commencement 2021 – keeping confidential until Board sees the recommendation next week.
- Last Friday a survey came out from Palmetto College – friendly reminder to complete this survey by March 15th.

Questions/comments from the floor:

Moon-Kelly – are you talking about performers too? For the diversity program
Collins – send an email and we'll talk, but yes.

Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs – Dr. Todd Lekan, report submitted (Appendix 2)

- Page 1
  - Faculty review and intent forms have been sent out. Please submit these by March 15th. He plans to send out confirmations to faculty who are undergoing review after that date.
  - Summer orientation schedule – in person and virtual. Starting a little later this year. We do not expect to need faculty participation. He'll be in touch if backup is needed.
  - Congratulations to Financial Aid Office, the USCL Default rate is down from 2017 cohort.
- Page 2
  - Spring 2 begins March 15th, so halfway there. Final grades are due on a Saturday this year, which is not typical which is May 8th.

- Please support Undergraduate Research Club's virtual conference.
- Check out Brent Burgin Lunch and Learn
- Kudos to Susan Cruise who secured a Springs Foundation grant for the USCL Student Food Pantry
- Final thanks for faculty – see his report.
- One last thing – we got news that the blanket approval to offer courses not approved to be offered as distance learning has been extended through the summer. As of this morning, both the Provost and the Faculty Senate will allow courses to be offered in an online format.

Questions/comments from the floor:

D. Lawrence – She watched the meeting on that question. The committee that approves those courses does not work over the summer, so if you need a course to be approved for distance learning, you need to submit that now for approval for the Fall.

Berry – does this mean we do not need to teach in person this summer

Lekan – yes that's what this means. This summer is just like this spring and this past fall. So if you are offering a course that is not approved for online, you are allowed to do that again this summer

Yingst – should we submit changes to our summer request?

Lekan – email those requests as soon as possible to the division chairs

Holland - I'm assuming we have to email our division chairs if we want to teach in an online format?

Academic Success Center – Dr. Dana Lawrence, report submitted (Appendix 3)

We are seeking peer tutors for the fall, especially math, anatomy and physiology classes, and computer science. If you know of anyone, please let her know.

Human Resources—Tracey Mobley Chavous, report submitted (Appendix 4)

Medford Library – Rebecca Freeman, report submitted (Appendix 5)

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES:

USC SYSTEM COMMITTEES

Palmetto College Campuses Faculty Senate

1. Executive Committee – Ernest Jenkins

One quick update and a thank you.

- Thank you is for Dana – for sending out the question about the proposed feature barbecue.
- The update: that event will be moved to the fall.

2. Rights and Responsibilities Committee – Andy Yingst

- They have not met, so no report.

3. System Affairs Committee – Jerrod Yarosh
  - We have not met, so nothing to report.
4. Welfare Committee – Peter Seipel
  - Welfare Survey was sent out by email. Note, there are two surveys – one for Palmetto College and one from Welfare.

OTHER SYSTEM COMMITTEES

Columbia Faculty Senate – Report submitted (Appendix 6)

- If you have questions, please email.

LOCAL COMMITTEES:

DEI Committee – Adam Biggs & Dana Lawrence

- Link sent in chat: <https://www.historians.org/publications-and-directories/perspectives-on-history/may-2017/many-thousands-failed-a-wakeup-call-to-history-educators>
- The article Adam wanted to share is in Appendix 7 and D. Lawrence sent this by email after the meeting as well.
- Please see the recording.
- The committee is in the process of putting together a DEI statement that could be included in the Palmetto College Mission.

Local T&P Committee – Chris Bundrick, report submitted (Appendix 8)

- Aiming to have reviews out early April
- For the ballot, there has been discussion about organizing a meeting to help fine tune peer review and the expectations of what faculty submit.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS: None currently

NEW BUSINESS:

Two motions – both will be voted on at April meeting.

Motion to add PCC Policy Advisory Committee to Bylaws (Appendix 9)

Questions/comments from the floor:

No questions from the floor

Motion to add admissions representative to the Admissions, Petitions, and Grade Change (APGC) Committee (Appendix 10)

Submitted by the Executive Committee to faculty on 2-22-2021 by Golonka and was reviewed by APGCC prior to this submission to faculty colleagues.

Questions/comments from the floor:

Scarlett – is this a voting position?

D. Lawrence – yes

Scarlett – is this common to have a staff member vote on this type of committee?

Seipel – we had a representative on the committee and that person was voting.

Golonka – there is precedence on this committee to have a voting member from staff and we have other committees that have staff members who have voting rights.

Penuel – this comes about from having some admission decisions being made without faculty input.

Scarlett – in the past we have had some staff that have had undue influence on a committee. He expressed concern about having a staff member have voting rights on a faculty committee.

Biggs – asked for expansion on the issue where a staff member had undue influence.

Scarlett – I would rather not expand on that, but if this is a faculty committee, the faculty should make some decision about this committee

D. Lawrence – are you proposing an amendment to this motion?

Scarlett – I would like to make an amendment to make this a non-voting position.

Yingst – in chat, insert the word 'non-voting' before 'representative', ex officio is not correct word.

Lekan – in the interests of full disclosure, the director of admissions sits on there by the direction of the administration, and their view is valued on this committee. I'm speaking against the motion and offer some clarity about other staff on the committee.

Yingst – going to suggest, this is a broad principle type of motion – if we don't want staff voting on faculty committees. Maybe this needs to be a general content of the by-laws, and maybe something not part of this committee in general.

Alhaddad – She does not know much about this committee. The makeup of this committee does have a lot of staff on it, so should this committee be a faculty organization committee or should this be an administrative committee that has faculty members, so that means that committee would be under the Associate Dean's office, instead of faculty.

D. Lawrence – we have done that in the past. Is there a second to the amendment to make the admissions representative a non-voting member.

N. Lawrence – in the interest of making a broader amendment to all faculty committees, he is against this particular amendment and would be interested in a broader amendment about staff members being voting members of all the faculty committees

D. Lawrence – any other comments? Motion to the amendment did not pass.

Lekan – proposes that the EO should look at whether staff members of the committees should have voting privileges on the committees.

Scarlett – he would be interested in voting for this motion for this committee, but maybe asking the EO to look into all the committees to see if staff members have voting rights on other committees.

Yingst – in chat, about the wording in any future motion regarding this issue: "Staff don't vote on FO committees, and if there are committees on which we think staff should vote then those should become admin committees instead of FO committees" is a reasonable position that could lead to wider reform of the by-laws.

Hammond – It seems important to clarify voting practices without marginalizing staff or limiting faculty governance; either one. We may need to look at how many committees have this type of mix of staff and faculty on the committees and look carefully at the by-laws to look at handling both of these situations.

There are: 42 voting members attending. The amendment to the motion did not pass.

SPECIAL ORDERS:

Finalize ballot for April Election (Appendix 11)

- Nominees taken from the floor.

Questions/comments from the floor:

Yingst – any discussion about making the faculty meetings online in the future?

D. Lawrence – there may be a hybrid method to allow those who wish to view virtually and those who wish to attend.

Heinemann-Priest – are the PCC Faculty Senate meetings virtual?

Jenkins – currently they are. There is discussion about future meetings, but no decision has been made.

Note about eligibility and virtual options for those who need this information: Columbia Faculty Senate meetings are always virtual. Alhaddad mentioned that instructors can also run for this position due to a change a few years ago. This is important to note for faculty thinking about service who are in an instructor position.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

D. Lawrence – in Agenda for today's meeting sent out by email (copied below) –
 Counseling Services: Mary To Lee is working with the Children's Council on implementing a BASICS Program (Brief Alcohol Screening and Intervention for College Students) here at USCL. Our goal is to gather data on alcohol use and provide information so that students can make informed decisions regarding alcohol consumption (in hopes there is a decrease of alcohol use in general and/or healthier choices made).

It would take about 20-30 minutes of the student's time, probably closer to 20 honestly. She has already reached out to several faculty members about presenting this as an extra credit opportunity but wants to make a more general call to faculty at today's meeting. She is sending out more information next week.

Easley – wanted to remind us that the virtual conference for USCL's Research Club – they are holding a giveaway for the month of March – all USCL students are eligible. It's a 55" tv, so please let students know. Links dropped in chat:

linktr.ee/USCL\_Research\_Club,

Biggs – file will be sent out – see Appendix 7.

Moon-Kelly – virtual concert March 21

Our goal is to host a meaningful experience that enables interns to work collaboratively with the communities we serve to focus on topics of diversity, equity, and inclusion. REMINDERS about the ASC's booking system:

- Students can book appointments as late as 15 minutes in advance.
- The booking page allows students to book a maximum of ten days in advance (in an effort to allow as many students as possible to have access to tutoring services, and to cut down on no-shows).

3) Just a reminder about the USC Leave Transfer Pool.

FTE employees who are experiencing a family or medical emergency which requires time away from work for which they do not have enough accrued leave time should consider requesting leave from the transfer pool.

There are many generous employees from all campuses who have donated leave time to the transfer pool.

We also have employees who prefer to donate their leave directly to specific employees.

HR 1.10 - Leave Transfer Policy is located on the web at <http://www.sc.edu/policies/ppm/hr110.pdf>

Please contact the Lancaster Campus Human Resources Department with questions or assistance with accessing the correct forms to request leave from the Leave Transfer Pool.

Columbia Senate Report

USCL Members Reporting to USCL Faculty Organization

Date of Report: March 5, 2021 Faculty Meeting

Dates of Columbia Senate Meetings: March 3, 2021

General

President Caslen and Provost Tate's presentations were shorter due to another meeting obligation. Did say that additional questions could be addressed at the town hall—especially the questions asked about vaccines and COVID-19 that were not answered

1. President Caslen:

Calen addressed the Senate Faculty and reflected on the Campus reaching the one-year mark for the COVID 19 response. Thanked all the faculty, staff and students for work. Updated on 4 areas: SACS, Development of online courses, budget and budget outlook, and searches on campuses.

March 22-25 on site review for SACS. Holding weekly meetings to prepare and have on-site handouts to inform people on campus of the process. Final report will be given to the Campus in December 2021.

Online programs: This does not include the "resident in person model" for the 35,000 students within those programs. Carolina online is different than the resident in person courses and degrees. These are degrees that are being developed to reach a different type of student and would be 100% online. Mentioned—returning adult students with families and full-time jobs, military, corporate contracts. Deferred to specific questions to Provost.

Budget: The budget was focused on the mission statement. Talked about on going projects, the budget for those, grants, and the budget overages. Going into this year planned for 10-15% drop due to multiple reasons and budgeted for that. This drop didn't happen and now the campus has approx. 50-million-dollar overage. Talked about what would happen to this and that departments may have a budget to carry forward and will be put in the new budget model.

Searches: USC Akin and Upstate searching for Chancellor. Talked about the process and where each campus is within this process—update to come later in March.

Search for a Vice president of System affairs is going on now. This is a new staff position at the president level that will bring back a position the campus had before—about 4-5 years ago-- but did away with. This search will bring this position back to help with the strategic plan among other things.

Talked about the search to replace the current Presidential Faculty Fellow.
Encouraged faculty to attend the Town Hall on Friday.

(Questions and answers may not be word for word)

Q: Will the fall furloughs be rescinded considering the 50-million-overage? A: President said he was headed to a budget meeting after the Senate meeting and would bring this up and get back with the faculty.

2. Provost Tate:

Provost Tate addressed the Senate and commented that the president covered the majority of everything. Added that the merit exercises are on going and that should be happening on individual school and department levels. Talked about moving toward a residential model for the fall and that those online programs mentioned were in addition to that. Mentioned that this outlook will look at the vaccine roll outs and the recommendations by CDC guidelines.

(Questions and answers may not be word for word)

Q: (I missed the question because it dropped out on my end) A: The Provost talked about the process in which students could move through a master's and/or PhD with the intent of becoming a faculty member across the market place. Discusses the post-doc programs that could help identify individuals that could be potential hires. These are two different tracks with funding coming next year.

The Chair answered a question about vaccines being recommended but not required for faculty.

Q: Faculty were concerned about going back to the residential plan. Asked what to tell their colleagues about moving in this direction. A: Vaccines are our path to a new normal. He is not there to tell you to take it or not. If you decide not to take the vaccine or can't please identify yourself so a plan can be made to accommodate your needs to teach safely. But the plan is to move toward a residential plan within the CDC guidelines.

The Chair asked that questions about the vaccine and Covid guidelines be held and asked during the Town Hall due to time for the Provost's presentation.

Q: Asked about what cycle the merit raises would be based on—the 2018-19 as planned or something different. Is there a certain cycle they will be based on. A:

Not that he is aware of. Q: So it will be up to each individual department/college to make that decision? A: Correct.

3. Invited guest Diana Mitchell, Senior Associate Provost for Social Innovation and eLearning

Charged with the online offerings for the University of South Carolina system wide. The commitment from the president to the board is 30 programs. Talked about what has been going on and how this allows access and equity while providing revenue. Talked about mission and market—adult learners, students who started but didn't finish, those who started in another state, military, corporate partnerships, etc.... Most programs listed within her presentation will be available this fall but some will be available in 2022. Talked about the investment into these programs and that they are looking to hire new faculty to teach these courses and do not plan to ask faculty to add this to their current loads. Proposal to the Board will go out this month. These programs could have a separate admission site and requirements for admission could be different.

(Questions and answers may not be word for word)

Q: Would this be different or separate from the current admissions?

A: This would be separate. Could revisit admissions later to include it with the current admission process, but for now plan to keep it external. This is to allow for helping students in a high tough/frequent access manner since they are online.

Q: Many faculty are putting time and effort into online course development. Will the University hire someone to train faculty to build these courses so that the classes are more than a "glorified" power point—to be more competitive with other online programs? A: Would be disappointed if all we offered were talking PowerPoints. This maybe where we are now but plans to hire advisors to train staff on campus at CTE-- so this doesn't continue to be outsources for the programs. Talked about how to handle courses that may not usually be taught online.

Q: Will there be funds in place to get resources for these students—in reference to library needs. A: If there are resources needed yes but did not see additional needs at this time.

Digging into the Disciplines I: Accounting for Failure – The Impact of Principles of Accounting Courses on Student Success and Equitable Outcomes

Andrew K. Koch, PhD, President and Chief Operating Officer, Gardner Institute

Brent M. Drake, PhD, Vice Provost for Decision Support, University Nevada, Las Vegas & Gardner Institute Fellow

Introduction

Many faculty and institutional officials know well the role and impact of gateway STEM courses in chemistry and math on student success. However, to date there has been little work on the connection between gateway business courses, such as Principles of Accounting, and undergraduate persistence. The non-profit Gardner Institute now has new data, based on the transcripts of some 51,000 students at more than 30 colleges and universities, which suggest that accounting must now be considered on par with math and chemistry as one of the critical gateway courses in the conversation about student success.

This is a significant finding. Business is the top major among entering first-year students and also largest field for undergraduate degrees –and no one can earn a business degree without competing Principles of Accounting. This document addresses the role of accounting in student success, and offers some initial perspectives about why failure in accounting, as well as math (algebra or calculus) and chemistry, really matter – for students, for the institutions they attend, and for the communities and industries these institutions serve.

About the Data

The content found on this document comes from a broader study examining the rates of D, F, W (for any form of withdrawal on the transcript), and I (for incomplete) grades (DFWI rates) in introductory courses at thirty-six different colleges and universities in the United States. The thirty-six institutions include seven community colleges, two proprietary (for-profit) four-year institutions, eight independent (private) four-year institutions, and nineteen public four-year institutions – twenty-nine four-year and seven two-year total. The twenty-nine total four-year institutions further break down into six Baccalaureate Colleges, fourteen Masters Colleges and Universities, and nine Doctoral Universities

The data displayed in this document includes aggregate and disaggregate DFWI rates for Principles of / Introductory Accounting courses at 32 of the aforementioned institutions (18,217 students earning grades), Introductory Calculus courses at 32 of the institutions (13,253 students earning grades), and Introductory Chemistry courses at 31 of the institutions (20,987 students earning grades).

A. Average DFWI Rates by Course

The average DFWI rate by course ranges between 29.4% for Introductory Chemistry to 34.3% for Introductory Calculus. Introductory Accounting courses have a DFWI rate of 30.2% – higher than that of the chemistry courses but lower than that of the calculus courses included in the study.

B. DFWI Rates in the Courses for Pell Recipients and First-Generation Students Compared to Their Peers

Students from low-income backgrounds (defined as receiving a Pell Grant) or with less social capital (defined as being first-generation) have higher DFWI rates in all three gateway courses. The differences are greatest for first-generation students in chemistry and Pell grant recipients in calculus, but the fact that this is a consistent trend across all courses is a cause for concern.

C. DFWI Rates in the Courses for Men and Women

Males consistently have a higher DFWI rates when compared to their female counterparts in these three key gateway courses. The differences are greatest in chemistry, followed by accounting, and then calculus. These outcomes raise interesting questions about the cultural dynamics at work in the occupations that these courses support. In other words, if women do better than their male counterparts in these foundational courses, why are they underrepresented in the STEM majors and many STEM occupations?

D. DFWI Rates in the Courses by Race / Ethnicity

Students who report their race/ethnicity group as Caucasian / White, Asian-American, Non-Resident Alien (International) have DFWI rates lower than the course average in all three key gateway courses. Students who do not report a race/ethnicity (Unreported) have DFWI rates lower than the course average in both accounting and calculus. In contrast, and with the exception of American Indian / Alaskan Native students in calculus, students from all other race/ethnicity groups consistently have DFWI rates higher than the course average in all three courses – often substantially higher.

For example, Black / African-American students have DFWI rates that range from 16.3 percentage points (52.0%) higher in calculus, 16.8 percentage points (65.0%) higher in accounting, and 20.9 percentage points (79.6%) higher in chemistry than that of their White / Caucasian counterparts.

Historically, these outcomes are often cited as being indicative of inadequate prior academic preparation for college. However, the outcomes also suggest that the courses do little to mitigate inequality. In other words, these courses are often structured to push students out rather than to provide an instruction experience that lifts them up toward their education and occupational goals. In fact, the current design of many of these critical gateway courses may perpetuate and exacerbate inequitable outcomes.

E. DFWI Rates in the Courses Correlated with Retention Status

In all three courses, students who took the course and returned the next year to the same institution (identified as Retained on the graphs below) had the lowest DFWI rates. Students who were dismissed from the institution for either academic or disciplinary reasons (identified as Institution Required Student to Leave on the graphs below) had the highest DFWI rates.

The DFWI rate for students who chose to leave the institution (identified as Student Chose to Leave on the graphs below) should be of particular concern to the campus officials. These students were eligible to return to the institution because they were in good academic standing (2.0 grade point average or better). They took the course included in the study, earned a D, F, W, or I grade, and elected not to return to the institution the next year.

In all cases, the DFWI rates for students who chose to leave are much higher than that for their retained counterparts. The differences range from 18.6 percentage points (69.7%) higher in accounting (26.7% DFWI rate for retained students compared to 45.4% DFWI rate for students who chose to leave), 18.9 percentage points (59.5%) higher in calculus (31.8% DFWI rate for retained students compared to 50.7% DFWI rate for students who chose to leave), and 23.2 percentage points (89.6%) higher in chemistry (25.9% DFWI rate for retained students compared to 49.2% DFWI rate for students who chose to leave). These outcomes clearly indicate the relationship between doing poorly in a course and not persisting at the institution.

Brief Summary and Conclusion

The gender, income (Pell), first-generation, and retention differences in critical gateway courses highlighted in this document point to significant equity issues. Given changing national demographics as well as labor market and societal needs, these differences cannot continue if colleges and universities hope to help all students realize their educational and occupational aspirations.

The solution for addressing the issues identified by this study is not to blame the students or to “lower standards and give everyone an A.” The solution is also not to blame faculty. Those approaches would perpetuate inequity in other ways.

The findings strongly suggest that course redesign is essential – redesign that employs evidence-based pedagogies, embedded support, reward structures for faculty, and other methods that better serve a steadily diversifying, twenty-first century student body. While it is beyond the scope of this document to go into those approaches, it merits noting that use of these kinds of practices are shown to increase student engagement, learning, and success. This document shows what is occurring in the absence of widespread action, and suggests what is at stake if current trends persist.

Tenure and Promotion Committee
Report to the Faculty Organization 3/5/2021

The local T&P committee has finished reading FIFs and begun writing peer review narratives, which we plan to distribute via email early in April.

Depending on the outcome of next month's election, the committee hopes to organize a roundtable conversation next semester aimed at more fully contextualizing expectations for faculty in order to fine tune peer review (and perhaps aspects of tenure and promotion as well).
